

bKash asks distributors to adhere AML & CFT law strictly

Express Report

bKash, the largest mobile financial service provider in the country will bring more innovative products and services for common people to improve their quality of life through secure, easy and cost-effective financial transactions.

Kamal Quadir, Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of bKash said this while addressing a conference titled 'Distributor Meet-2018' held at the Hotel Radisson in the city last month.

He urged all bKash distributors to follow KY rules and enforce strictly AML/CFT law while doing business.

Around 208 distributors across the country attended the conference of bKash distributors to discuss AML&CFT issues and formulate business strategy for the coming years, says a press release.

Recognizing the effort and contribution of the distributors to bring bKash services at the doorsteps of common people, Kamal Quadir said bKash is working for the wellbeing of people with the view to improve their lives through financial inclusion. "We are bringing some innovative products and services to do more for them and lead the evolving payment market", he said.

Kamal Quadir

Mizanur Rashid, Chief Commercial Officer of bKash had discussed about company's strategy and growth plan at the conference. Saber Sharif, Head of AML&CFT under External and Corporate Affairs Division of bKash took a session at the conference highlighting the dos and don'ts for AML&CFT issue in business operation.

LEARN & EARN through Digital Finance

Digital Finance, the monthly Special of The Bangladesh Express is a collaborative media product of BJFCI and The Bangladesh Express designed to encourage BJFCI member journalists keep watch on the evolving financial landscape and protect rights of consumers and promote inclusive investments. BJFCI has taken the Learn & Earn project in line with its mission "to empower journalists, better address consumer concerns; and promote investors for a better Bangladesh with inclusive and sustainable growth". And The Bangladesh Express is publishing Digital Finance under its Financial Literacy For Mobile Subscribers-FILMS project in line with its mission 'to bring good thing to life'.

Mr. Promoth Ranjan Biswas (01745-922-737), Vice-Chairman of BJFCI is supervising the Learn & Earn project and Mr. Md. Bashir Hossain Miah (01753483985), Member of BJFCI is working as Project Coordinator of the project and the Digital Finance.

Through Digital Finance, BJFCI member journalists can earn a handsome amount of money as honorarium for their contribution to reporting and editing team of this monthly publication. Write up must be made in line with the Editorial policy of The Bangladesh Express and sent to the Project Coordinator within 20th of every month.

Editor
The Bangladesh Express
bdexpress15@gmail.com